FUNERAL SERVICES.

Vast Throng Saw The Remains Laid To Rest.

Body Placed in Vault to Await Selection of Suitable Site For The Grave.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 8.—The funeral services of the late Gov. Goebel were commenced today at noon in the parlors of the Capitol Hotel. The services proper were proceeded by a short procession in the streets of the town.

The procession was headed by a platoon of police, City Council, city officials, the grand marshal and his aids, and was followed by a band of music, secret societies, citizens on foot and the honorary pallbearers walking by its side, these were followed by the relatives, members and officers of the Legislature, officers of state, Judges and officers of courts and friends in carriages, in the order named. Following these were citizens on horseback.

The procession formed in the western part of the city, and after marching through a few of the principal streets came past the west door of the Capitol Hotel, where the hearse and relatives took their places in the line and the march was then taken up for the cemetery on the hill.

Immediately after the benediction the procession returned to the square in front of the Capitol Hotel, where it disbanded. There was no interment, the body being placed in the vault to await the selection of a suitable site for the grave and monument which is to be erected later.

An invitation was sent yesterday to Gen. John B. Castleman, of Louisville, asking him to act as the chief marshal of the parade. Gen. Castleman replied that it would give him pleasure to do so, but that he had been ill for a few days and hardly felt equal to the task. He promised, however, to attend the funeral.

As a mark of respect to the memory of Gov. Goebel all drills were suspended for the day.

The floral offerings were magnificent. Nearly every county in the State sent flowers, and the big room was one mass of roses, lilies and smilax. Ranged along the walls were scores of floral pieces, some of them extremely beautiful, while around the bier were piled great masses of flowers. The floral pieces from Fleming, Jessamine, Campbell, Fayette and Shelby counties were especially beautiful.

COUNTY COURT ORDERS.

Peddler Licensed—Administrator
Appointed—Road Orders.

Abe Singer was on Wednesday granted a license to peddle on foot in Christian county.

James Long was appointed overseer of the Hopkinsville and Greenville road from the Barnett farm to the widow Underwood's residence.

Messrs. Gill H. Smith and R. L. Smith have been appointed administrators of the large estate of Robert H. Smith, deceased, with J. H. Williams, as surety.

J. W. Wolfe was named as overseer of the Pembroke and Graham Bridge road from Pembroke to Thos. Tandy's.

Thos. Cason was appointed overseer of the road leading from Pembroke to Little River church.

Heavy Rain Fall.

The heaviest rain fall of the winter, in fact for a year or more, is reported over Western Kentucky. It rained throughout this section nearly all of Wednesday, Wednesday night and until two o'clock yesterday afternoon. Little rivers are high, and much of the low lands is submerged.

THE LAST ORDER.

Gov. Goebel Tell Hendrick to "Take Charge And Never Give up."

A few hours before Gov. Goebel died he sent for Hon. Jno. K. Hendrick, his trusted friend and attorney, says the Kentucky Democrat. The scene on his entering was tragic in the extreme. The fast-dying [democratic] chieftain lay on bed, almost inarticulate.

But while the muscles of the tongue could barely perform their function, his great brain was still active and centered on one thing—the future of Kentucky democracy.

Mr. Hendrick entered the room and the only witnesses to this remarkable scene were Arthur Goebel and a nurse. Approaching the bed, Gov. Goebel at once recognized Mr. Hendrick, but his voice came only in whispers, but these whispers were to convey a command fraught with the most weighty meaning.

Gov. Goebel beckoned to Mr. Hendrick and Mr. Hendrick walked to the bedside and took his hand. The governor could not make himself understood and Mr. Hendrick knelt down by the bedside and was compelled to place his ear, flesh to flesh, with the governor's lips.

"How are you?" asked Mr. Hendrick.

"Very apprehensive, indeed," whispered Gov. Goebel.

This was the first time that Gov. Goebel had given any utterance that he would not recover. But even in this full realization that the end was close at hand, thought of self was absolutely foreign to his mind. He thought solely and only of the democratic party.

"I am grieved to hear you speak that way about your condition," said Mr. Hendrick.

"My only thought is about the party."

Gov. Goebel then asked this significant question:

"Am I governor of Kentucky?"

"You are."

"Have you examined the question?"

"I have, and all the other lawyers who have investigated the question concur with me."

"Take charge and never give up," said Gov. Goebel, and the governor had issued his last order.

"Gov. Goebel," said Mr. Hendrick, "was perfectly rational. He did not have any thought for himself—only for the democratic party."

And as Mr. Hendrick told of this wonderful scene, tears swelled up in his eyes. The dying man was his old-time friend, fellow-senator and room-mate for four years, confidential counsellor, one of his chief, trusted, personal friends.

PINKERTON'S OPINION

Is That the Assassin Shot From Room Adjoining Taylor's Office.

Taylor has permitted detectives to make an examination of the Executive building, and it is now believed that the bullet was fired from a window in the office of the Secretary of State. William Pinkerton, the celebrated detective, has arrived and began an investigation. Col. Thomas C. Campbell, a noted criminal lawyer, has been engaged to work on the case. It is believed that in a few days arrests will be made of prominent persons suspected of being engaged in the conspiracy. The rewards for the capture of the assassins will amount to a comfortable fortune, and have attracted the services of the best detectives in the country.

NEW PROPOSITION.

Taylor Has Not Signed Louis- ville Peace Compact.

Ex-Gov. Bradley Files Suit For Taylor in Federal Court— Will Arrest Democrats.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 8.—Taylor has not yet signed the Louisville agreement, and according to the latest indications he will not do so unless it is considerably modified.

This afternoon it was announced on trustworthy authority that the usurper had prepared a new peace proposition, differing materially from the Galt House compact, and that he intends to submit it at a conference to be held to-morrow night.

Ex-Gov. Bradley filed suit in the federal court at Cincinnati this morning praying for an injunction to restrain Gov. Beckham from interfering with usurper Taylor in the effort of the latter to exercise the functions of Governor.

The rump legislature at London this afternoon held an executive session and agreed to issue warrants of arrests for enough Democratic legislators to secure a quorum.

Many ladies were present. The meeting was called to order by Hon. Fenton Sims and was presided over by Hon. Jas. B. Garnett. Dr. Lackey made a strong speech on the adoption of the resolutions. Col. Sims, who read the resolutions, broke completely down. The house was packed and there were a few dry eyes in the room when the meeting adjourned. GIANT.

KILLED BY CARS.

Joshua N. Grant Loses His Life At Crofton.

Joshua N. Grant, who was guarding the switch at Crofton, was found dead by the railroad track Wednesday morning. There was a deep gash on his forehead and it is believed that he went to sleep on the track and was struck by a train. Grant had been a section hand in the employ of the L. & N., but was recently given the position of switch-guard. It is thought that he was struck by the south bound express. The body was found in a short while after the train had passed, and the indications were that death was instantaneous.

Grant was about 25 years old and leaves a widow and two small children, who reside in Crofton.
